Agenda:

1. Review and approval of the previous meeting minutes
2. Discussion on Grievance Redressal mechanism
3. Discussion on Women Empowerment Cell

Discussions:

- The meeting commenced with a welcoming address by Dr K Sunanda, Coordinator. She presented an action taken report of IQAC for the previous meeting incorporating the suggestions made the IQAC members.
- Dr. N. Ramesh Babu suggested that a revised grievance redressal mechanism should be put in place. It should establish clear policies outlining the grievance resolution process. These policies should specify who can lodge grievances, how grievances should be documented, timelines for resolution, and the steps involved in the resolution process. It should foster a culture of respect, open communication, and fairness within the institution to prevent grievances from escalating. Encourage proactive resolution of conflicts and grievances at the earliest stage possible. He further spoke about Women Empowerment Cell which provides support services to female students, faculty, and staff, including counseling, mentoring, and guidance on personal and professional development. This support helps in overcoming challenges and achieving academic and career goals.
- Dr.D.Sireesha suggested we should ensure that all stakeholders are aware of the grievance resolution mechanism. This can be achieved through orientation sessions, handbooks, and prominently displaying information on the institution's website. He also spoke about WEC which raises awareness about gender issues, including discrimination, stereotypes, and gender-based violence. It advocates for gender equality and challenges societal norms that hinder women's progress.
- Dr G. Deepika suggested that we should guarantee confidentiality to protect the identities of individuals involved in grievances. Maintain impartiality throughout the process to ensure fair treatment and equitable outcomes for all parties. WEC should educate women about their legal rights, including laws related to sexual harassment, workplace rights, and gender discrimination. This knowledge empowers them to assert their rights and seek redressal when needed.

- Dr K Sunanda suggested that we should provide training to staff and faculty involved in the grievance resolution process. This training should focus on conflict resolution skills, empathy, understanding institutional policies, and maintaining professionalism. The WEC should organize workshops, seminars, and training programs aimed at enhancing women's skills in various areas such as leadership, entrepreneurship, self-defense, and communication. These initiatives empower women to excel in their chosen fields.
- Mrs Vijaya Sri suggested that we should define a structured procedure for handling grievances, which may include informal mediation or formal hearings depending on the nature and severity of the grievance. Clearly outline the roles and responsibilities of administrators, grievance committees, or designated officers tasked with resolving grievances.
- Mr. M Srinivas spoke about maintaining detailed records of grievances, including the nature of the grievance, actions taken, and outcomes. Regularly report on the number and types of grievances received, resolved, and pending to ensure transparency and accountability...
- Mr. Sai Kumar spoke about offering support services such as counseling or advisory services to individuals involved in grievances, particularly students who may require emotional or academic support during the process. He further said the WEC actively participates in policy discussions and advocacy efforts aimed at institutionalizing gender-sensitive policies and practices within the institution including policies on recruitment, promotion, equal pay, and creating a safe and inclusive campus environment
- Mr. Sreekanth Kota opined that we should periodically review the grievance resolution policies and procedures to ensure they remain relevant and compliant with regulatory requirements. Make updates as needed based on evolving institutional needs and feedback from stakeholders. He also emphasized that we should regularly monitor the impact of WEC initiatives through feedback mechanisms, surveys, and assessment of outcomes. This ensures that the cell's efforts are effective and responsive to the needs of women within the institution.

Resolutions:

1. Resolved to establish of a Revised Grievance Redressal Mechanism: Implement clear policies outlining the grievance resolution process, including documentation, timelines for resolution, and steps involved. Ensure these policies promote respect, open communication, and fairness to prevent escalation of grievances.
2. Resolved to modify the operations of the Women Empowerment Cell (WEC): Strengthen support services provided by the WEC, including counseling, mentoring, and guidance for female students, faculty, and staff. Focus on personal and professional development to overcome challenges and achieve academic and career goals.
3. Resolved to conduct orientation sessions, distribute handbooks, and prominently display information on the institution's website to ensure all stakeholders are aware of
